Perhaps more than ever, employers are challenged with rising costs and risks while also facing an increasingly competitive landscape for attracting and retaining talent. One of the most impactful ways employers can reduce health care costs and the cost of presenteeism while also increasing productivity and performance, employee satisfaction, and culture is to invest in employee health and wellbeing. That’s why we’ve created one of the most comprehensive and innovative wellbeing consulting practices in the market.

Our experts work with clients to advance their population health management initiatives and see tangible results. Our strategies are rooted in the six foundational components of an effective health risk management and wellbeing strategy: organizational commitment, sustainable culture, communication and engagement methods, actionable data, wellbeing programs, benefits and networks, and outcomes and value of investment.

We utilize behavioral economics, communications and technology to drive employee engagement in wellbeing programs and commitment to healthy behaviors.

We work with you to develop a wellbeing and engagement plan that addresses all five components of wellbeing – social, physical, financial, community and purpose – and we qualitatively demonstrate how that plan will generate significant value and savings.

Through ongoing consulting support and the monthly delivery of Well Informed, which includes our esteemed Wellbeing Insights e-magazine, Self Care Calendar, National Health Observances, and more, we help you empower your employees to sustain healthy lifestyles and equip managers to become wellbeing leaders.

Equipped with the extensive knowledge and guidance of our Regulatory Affairs experts, your organization can ensure it is meeting all requirements of health care reform and the Affordable Care Act, as well as all federal and state laws.

WHY FOCUS ON WELLBEING?

Research clearly illustrates a strong link between employee wellbeing and increased employee engagement and performance, lowered health care costs, improved staff morale and more. As such, employers who take a strategic approach to employee wellbeing can expect a return on their investment.

Conversely, poor workplace wellbeing comes at a price. Here are just some of the costs associated with a lack of employee wellbeing:

- 75% of medical costs accrued mostly due to preventable conditions
- 15% to 20% of total payroll in voluntary turnover costs, on average, due to burnout
- $322 billion of turnover and lost productivity cost globally due to employee burnout
